

1. Introduction

This is a message to the entire German people!

In this document I will describe what has happened to me again in my life and why every German needs to know, no matter how long it takes for my message to be true and correct.

Before I begin, I would like to precede the following essential statement:

At the heart of my message is the work of a so-called 'secret service'. Therefore, I would like to describe in more detail what I mean by this.

I am a normal citizen, that is, I am a weder intelligence officer, nor have I ever worked for an intelligence organization. Before a decisive event occurred in my life, my knowledge of what an intelligence service is, does or what means and methods to use, from free accessible sources, even if I had very early in my life further conjectures.

Of course, everyone who reads these will bring their own ideas, what an intelligence service is or what its activities consist of.

My concern is to inform everyone about what is still possible, moreover, what one believes, what lies in the frame.

- 1.) At the time of this video recording, thousands of German citizens are being monitored by an intelligence service.
- 2.) This is done without any concrete reason.
- 3.) When I speak of 'monitoring', I am referring above all to acoustic and visual monitoring in the private dwelling, in the rooms on the workplace and other places where one is ch stops. I do not mean cameras that are visible in public places or in shops of any kind.
- 4.) There are people who work for this " secret service" who are able to read the thoughts of another person and are also able to hook into this "secret service" " and to some extent to carry out a kind of "remote control".
- 5.) What Edward Snowden revealed a few years ago, on the other hand, is a "child's birthday".

When I speak of a "secret service" in the Verlon this message, I do not explicitly mean a well-known secret service, such as. the Federal Intelligence Service, the CIA or NSA, but rather an organization that operates on the basis of a secret service, officially named but does not appear.

I will now describe why I know that I am being monitored by an intelligence service and why the confirmation of what I say is extremely important, even if I now can't see more.

2. First conjecture

My life can be divided into two sections. Once in the time when I occasionally thought about whether it could be that I would be monitored and in the time from which I have gained the full weight of it that this is so.

The period in which I had the presumption that an "Secret Service" monitors me "I can date today looking back time from the day of my birth to September 11, 2001.

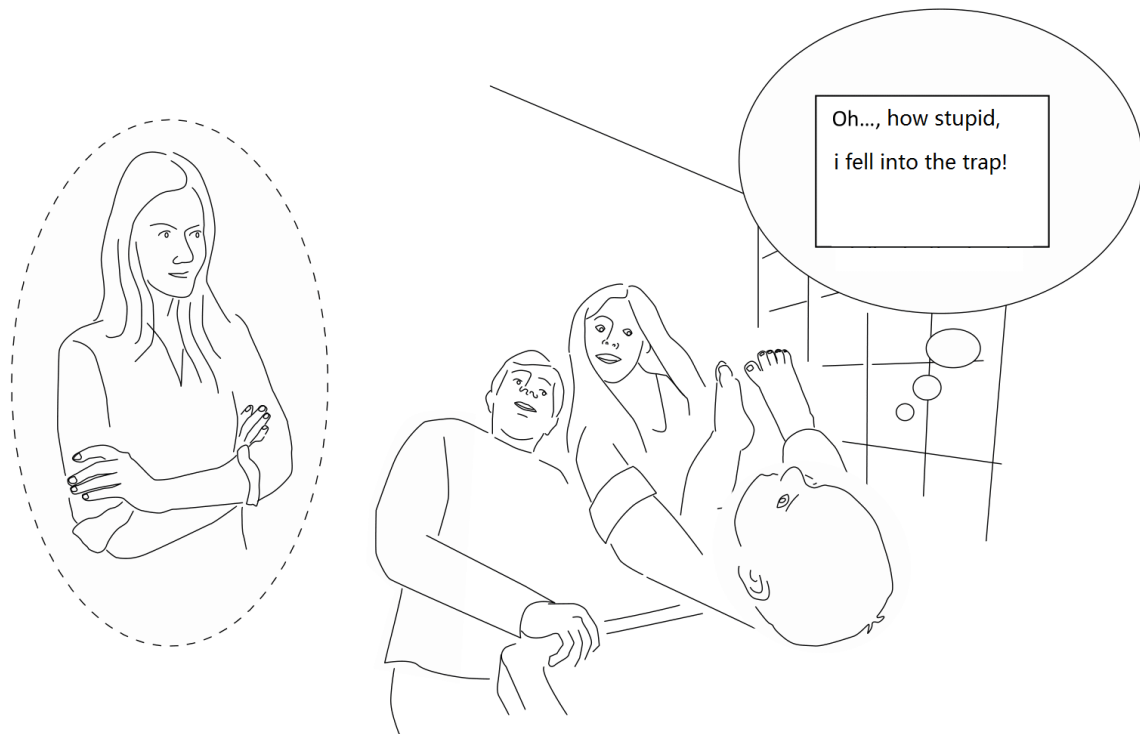

Chronologically I want to start with an impression that took place shortly after my birth.

Today I can no longer say exactly, which is ultimately also not decisive, whether since the actual birth in the hospital, now 5 days,8 days or 12 days had passed, but about within this period of time I came to conscious lyrical for the first time or in other words I noticed my surroundings for the first time and can therefore say that my Human beings had actually begun from that moment on.

I was in my parents' apartment and was kept in the bathtub by my mum, who handed me over to my father shortly afterwards, as she obviously had trouble me and wash or. can I remember a sentence from my mother: "He is so small ..."?'

Parallel to these first impressions I heard a voice in my mind, which began for the first time, but which was not friendly and read: " Oh, that's stupid, I'm trapped gone". I replied to this female voice directly with 'No' and fell asleep again shortly afterwards.

Looking back, I can still remember some sequences from my first years of life and especially that already in these first years I thought whether it might be that I am being monitored by other people, with this thought being based primarily on the first impression of my awakening, i.e. on the voice that I heard in the bathroom and with me had left a lasting impression. In addition, I grasped the humanity itself, the world um me around and I quickly realized that people, to put it simply at this point, are not always nice to each other or man is the enemy to himself.

My question of course had to remain unanswered, but for me personally already as a little boy came to the conclusion that this is possible, which of course I could do anything but a beautiful circumstance.

I never talked to jemanden about this presumption as a 2-year-old or later as a 6-year-old or 11-year-old and postponed the answer to this question until later, once I had grown up. Am.

I do not mean to say that I have constantly thought about it, but every now and then, at a young age, such reflections have gone through my head, whether there could be people who have no inhibitions to invade the private spy of me or other people. The question I asked myself, so, is this conceivable or possible.

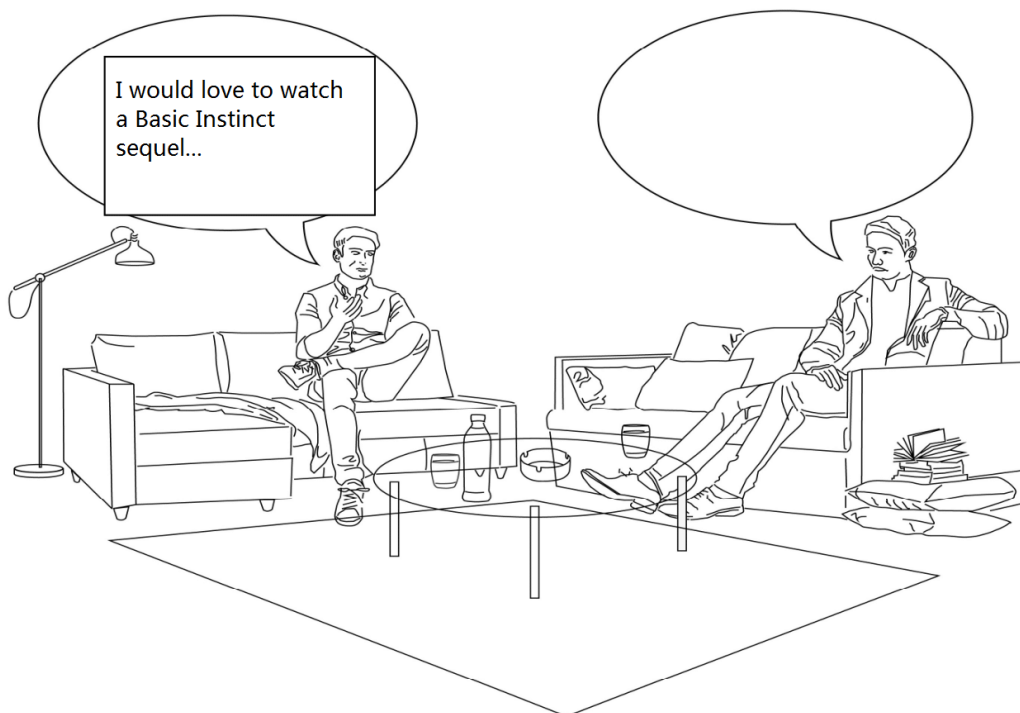

Unfortunately, I had to answer this question with a yes for me. However, at the time I could not defend myself against it and had to live with the suspicion.

3. Crucial conversation with a colleague from the banking business

Now I would like to jump into the year 1999, because there was a conversation with a former colleague from the banking apprenticeship, which was essential for me in many respects.

At that time, I was 22 years old and I had met with him in his new apartment in Frankfurt and talked about various things.

This conversation, which I reproduced here, is of course not according to the exact wording, but represents a summary of the essential contents.

I would like to say that it was noticeable to me that the "Secret Service" was present at the conversation that day, because I could feel the "hook".

One of the subjects of our discussion was, among other things, crime, or more generally, the bad behavior of certain ethnic groups, namely Turks, Moroccans, Lebanese, Kurds, etc.

There has already been a kind of consensus on this subject between the two of us.

We both had similar personal experiences at that time, resulting in an aversion to these ethnic groups and were therefore on the same wavelength in this respect.

These personal experiences, from today's point of view, I can certainly call as "harmless" in Quotation marks, such as. intentionally provoked squabbles on the way home from school or stupid make-up in the disco. Harmless because no personal damage in the form of injuries or the loss of valuables was the result. However, friends from school or other

Acquaintance seem also other exits or variants, such as actual physical attacks up to knife attacks and corresponding injuries. From newspapers, for example, one could finally hear the end of the spectrum, like brawls by 5 foreigners against a German and resulting serious injuries or even deaths.

During my training as a bank clerk, I was also able to witness a bank robbery on my own and to witnessing the police department, and I saw as a witness to the cards of several hundred potential suspects, these persons consisted of about 90% non-Germans. These non-Germans were again mainly southerners, i.e. Turks and North Africans.

Since comparable experiences were not made with “Germans”, I had already at this time for this time for me personally reached a conclusion from all these experiences and impressions.

This gain of knowledge included several steps:

First of all, I was asked the fundamental question, how can it be that such ethnic groups are in my country at all?

These people are outwardly instinctively rejected and have not proved to be effective in their history.

Conversely, I got to know my own people as a country from which the best and the most beautiful stands and grows out what this world has to offer. At this point I cannot list all the achievements in all fields of science, but the facts speak for themselves.

In my eyes something not fitting together here.

On the one hand, my people are partly responsible for the fact that we have lifted up humanity as a whole, on the other hand, certain people from my own country seem to have contributed to it. that we now have ethnic groups, races of cultures in our midst, which are destructive in all respects.

I came to the first conclusion that when I come to this world, these people should not be there at all. It is absurd.

However, since these peoples are particularly numerous layers in this plantation and are obviously not prepared to voluntarily renounce further reproduction or. on the contrary, amazingly even find themselves particularly great, although they are not, so a problem must be solved.

My other conclusion was:

Therefore, an effort to achieve a complete expulsion of these people from our country can no longer be a solution, since the existence of certain ethnic groups in itself is a fundamental one. Mistake is and the problem is only shifted to future generations. It is not acceptable that I have to deal with such a problem at all, and all future generations should not be concerned with such a problem in the first place. must.

Therefore, I said that the following peoples must be completely destroyed: Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, Egypt, Israel, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, the entire Saudi Peninsula, Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Kazakhstan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia to the Philippines.

And this would only be the coarse cleaning. After that, the fine-tuning must come, which affects the rest of the African states, South and Central America, the Caribbean and, of course, its own people.

I noted that not everyone who has a German passport today is purebred and valuable; I can imagine a halving of the population.

If a button is available to make this a reality, I would press it immediately, so fast that you couldn't even look. The only requirement for me would be that this has to be done from one second to the next, as I do not blame or. Have an interest in am suffering of these people, for it is conceivable that in this universe there is an infinite cycle of life, so that in any other life I can I want to destroy him today. But I would eliminate these people all, even if we are talking here of several billion, but it must be done, especially with regard to the fact that we have an ultimate goal, namely the "solution of the puzzle".

For, I would like to emphasize that we have not created paradise on earth, and someone should believe that a satisfactory state on this planet would now have been reached, when 500 million people of Germanic descent are walking around the earth.

By "solution of the puzzle " I mean, since the only thing that plays a role, is that we humans get into the knowledge, what is actually going on here. How can a universe arise, what does it have to deal with, how can life arise in general, how could man arise, where leads das everything, so systematically the complete Enlightenment, be it scientific and/or spiritual?

This is, of course, a daunting task and will require thousands more generations, although of course it is not possible to give a precise time, whether this will take 2,000, 5,000 or 300,000 years - if at all.

For whether humanity will ever succeed in this, is also a question that one can quite deny, since it is also conceivable that we will not have a "winning species" since.

Wherein "winning species" is defined solely by whether we have solved the riddle and not by the fact that we become on average every 120 years old, the disease cancer have defeated, Houses can be built which are 2 kilometers high or can reach the duckiest planets.

In addition, we must fly a "time loop" and destroy the planet, which we call our homeland, before the first life arose many billions of years ago. For we cannot leave that everything has ever happened on this earth, the millions of times suffering that people have suffered, so.

In addition, we do not have unlimited time for this unique lyrically relevant mission, as Natural disasters of any kind must be taken into account, which may not eliminate us completely before we have reached the goal but can always throw us back decisively.

As of today, however, there are very few peoples or. Races have emerged positively here, other races and cultures, on the other hand, have not only made a significant contribution, but are destructive – especially Islam.

Hence my conclusion that the said 'countries with their populations should be eliminated' so that humanity has any chance of solving the 'puzzle', because it will certainly not succeed in this. in the presence of a numerically significantly superior majority of full idiots.

Of course, I was in conversation at the time and also now the meaning of what I said was quite clear, so I added the question, if my self-defense is rejected, how then should it be look the evolution of humanity?

So, if one denies racial differences and thus performance differences between the breeds, then one is probably convinced that these differences are due to other causes and are therefore only temporary. and a development to the positive is possible.

But then the question arises, how should this further development look concrete and be carried out?

Since it is impossible to take in billions of people on our territory in order to give them better living conditions, one must probably go to these people.

So, no immigration to us, but help on the ground.

This aid on the ground can now take various humanitarian forms and has been practiced for decades.

However, in addition to the ostensive concerns, there are such as the lack of medical

Utilities, hunger and the lack of education, often the much more crucial problem that corrupt criminal regimes have in their own hands and let them live in hell, whether out of hunger for power. or religious blindness.

There is torture and murder in a thousand-fold execution, and this is not stopped by the so-called West, which cannot be the solution.

At that time, I specifically named two countries, Afghanistan and Iraq, which can be regarded both geographically and politically as the center of evil or backwardness and Wests need to be developed.

To this end, I have now devised concrete tactics and a basic strategy for the successful military elimination of these regimes.

I will not give details of this here and refer to my website www.tobiasrathjen.de.

If one leads these wars, two theories essential for the future of mankind can be examined:

- 1.) Can these ethnic groups develop for the better or?
- 2.) Is all hope lost and thus the total destruction legitimate?

My view then as now was that Thesis 2 is true. The following generations can now check whether I was right or not.

4. Strategy for the USA

Since the USA was the only power to wage these wars at that time, I began to deal fundamentally with the situation of the USA.

In 1999, the United States was the world's No.

My question was, but are they still in the future?

A look into the past reveals that all world powers, one can also high cultures or large empires that people ever created, after a certain period of time. So, if there is a kind of natural principle of emergence, of flowering and decline, then the USA will not be able to escape this logic of ascension and fall.

Predicting the decline of the US is therefore not an intellectual feat.

I was sure that in 5 or 10 years the US will still be a world power or the only world power.

But what in 20, 30 or 40 years? What about China? Due to the sheer size of the population, it may be that this country may be somewhat, one can only estimate it, but perhaps by the year 2040 will be so strong that it will be will compete with the United States for the title "Superpower".

As a conceivable scenario, I realized that I can imagine that in 2040, when I am already a pensioner myself, this case might actually have occurred that the Us not more the No. 1 are, since the so-called "elites" of the country do not know what to do.

At that moment I began to design a strategy so that the USA beyond 2040 are world power No. 1.

The goal must be to remain at a top level both economically and militarily.

First of all, the economy.

How can an economic superpower be established?

Of course, at the bottom of gross national product, that is, that the US and China have at some point reached the same level.

It should be stressed, however, that economic strength is not only about the size of the gross national product or that it is important to have high market shares in as many sectors as possible, such as 75% for washing machines or 80% for razors, but also on whether a nation is able to trigger the progressive innovations, such as the invention of the telephone, the car, the Plane, the rocket, the computer, medical remedies, etc....

This capability will determine whether China will be able to take a leading role and thus become a superpower.

At that time, in 1999, the situation for me was as follows:

China is not yet a country that excels in the field of high technology, so even here it supplies inventions of significant magnitude.

Many Western firms have struggled to build China, be it from a cost point of view, to be able to serve their own markets more competitively or to be the first to compete in a large future lucrative market. to be able to participate.

The current state of affairs at that time was that the branches or production facilities opened by companies were often not high-quality or complex products, but it can be assumed that this was only possible. will be a first step in a number of further development steps.

In addition, it must be expected that the Chinese leadership will aim to become more and more independent of the knowledge of the West, in order to be able to produce the most modern products and services. This will only be a matter of time.

So, the following picture emerged for me:

This conceivable rise of China will not only be a natural process, unstoppable and based on the diligence of the Chinese people and the intelligence of the Chinese leadership, but we will itself. the so-called “West” will bear a substantial share of the blame for such a development.

The basic problem can be described as follows:

We are not talking here about a homogeneous body when we are talking about the 'Western states'. We are competing with each other ourselves, so it will always be attractive for individual states or companies from the USA or Europe from the respective micro-perspective or. from short-term profiteered, to enter into business with China.

Therefore, we need to create a new organization that works similarly to NATO and is economically a defense alliance against China. The primary objective of this organization must be to ensure that our high technology does not reach China, i.e. a form of technology lock is imposed and monitored.

To illustrate this need, I tried the following example:

Assuming that in the next few decades, 18 well-known

Key technologies, wherein I defined these as technologies, which not only have the potential to create completely new industries but can also completely eliminate several industries.

Without such an organization, China could use voluntary technology transfer or copy or copy. Espionage succeeds in possessing 8 such technologies.

With such an organization or. for example, only one or two.

In summary: Should China succeed in opening up to the superpower USA in 2040, then this was primarily a failure of ourselves, since the West did not stand united to the opponent and short-term profit interests put long-term success above.

In addition to China, I identified another nation that needs to be brought into focus: Mexico.

As early as 1999, I suspected that the NAFTA agreement would not prove to be beneficial to the United States. Here I differentiated between two perspectives. For American companies i.e. from the point of view of corporate management, it may be quite attractive to make a relocation to Mexico, so it is logical or sensible economically. However, from the perspective, what is good for the whole country to free trade agreements will turn out to be negative, as jobs and entire industries will be lost, which again cannot be in the interests of the state or the people as a whole, especially if not by equivalent jobs or. can be replaced by new industries.

At that time, I could only guess the known handles deficits with China and Mexico.

Secondly, Mexico is the starting point for two other problems which need to be resolved, namely drug smuggling and illegal immigration.

This problem can be solved quite easily by building a continuous "wall" to Mexico.

Back to China. Irrespective of the question whether China succeeds in opening up the year 2040 economically to the USA, there is still a second side of the coin, namely that of the military force.

In this consideration, the discrepancy between the two nations was and is even more clearly recognizable.

But we are talking about possible scenarios 40 years later in the future.

If China has been economically on an economic footing with the Us, the resources are there to build a corresponding military superpower.

To assume that today's lead will automatically continue for decades, is of course not recommended.

In other words, the first conclusion is that something has to happen that goes beyond that, than keeping the defense budget at the same level and relying abstractly on any combat systems that you can Piece by piece round newer, such as. a new fighter jet, combat helicopter, aircraft carrier, missile defense system, etc.

In my view, military clout is expressed mainly by troops who have practical experience.

In addition, the question, whether superpower or not, is ultimately purely fictitious in nature, if I do not actually exercise the actual power that I could exercise.

Therefore, the question initially asked, what can I do from today's point of view to maintain the status quo, is the false question – if the decline is inevitable anyway, or. even this successful by-ship of the China challenge only postpones the real dilemma but does not really solve.

The real crucial question is, what do I do in the time when I have the power and the means, how do I use the superpower status?

My answer was: there are currently enough despots, tyrants and criminal regimes in the world who, although not directly threatening militarily, are removing them morally and morally and seems more than necessary in human terms.

Now you can combine two things.

On the one hand, the power to use for the good of humanity, on the other hand, subject its own army to a training, which cannot afford peace maneuvers.

In addition to training the entire command structure, the tactics is above all the aspect of innovating the crucial point. Since ultimately only practice can give the decisive clues, what works (in equipment, in technology, in tactics) and what not, ultimately a war is the best means for its military further develop.

So, my advice was: Make your military machine a war, because only this one really makes you better. When you free Iraq and Afghanistan, you also do something good.

In order to conserve the resources, then a rest period must come to consolidate about 20 years.

Start again from 2030 with the training for your military.

This training should ensure that in the period 2040 the military machine is on a level that one still has the status of "World Power No.1", even if economically the paristate occurred should be.

By the way, from a spying point of view, the chosen strategy is extremely resistant, because it can never be excluded that in foreign intelligence, for example. technical details of a weapon and is able to recreate it by copy.

When a division or entire army is in war, then it learns to make things better every day, changes processes, adapts, the quality and impact of an Army is now measured not only in the number of tanks, in the quality of the armor, etc. but above all in the practical experience of the people who use this device in enemy conditions . No one can copy that if he does not wage war himself.

Compared to past wars of the USA, such as Vietnam, Korea or the Second World War, the human losses in these two missions will be significantly lower. viewed. Losses of allied states not included.

In summary, my strategy recommendation for the US was:

Phase 1, Focusing on the Army by Strengthening the Military by War in Iraq and Afghanistan, then Phase 2 with Strengthening of Own Economy Focusing on The Imbalance in Trade Relations with Mexico and China to eliminate.

In this regard, I mentioned that a billionaire (for phase 2) should take the helm, as he is most likely to set the economic course for the UNITED States because of his personality.

At that time, I still had the failure of Ross Perot in the back of my mind.

My strategy is currently being implemented in the USA!

This is a great honor for me!

However, the story is not over here.

5. High treason

Already 20 years ago I came in the problem analysis, why Germany tolerates this constant alien crime, concludes that the criminal aliens are only one side of the coin , because on the other hand are Germans, who are either ignorant or too weak or too stupid to solve the problem, that is, to send everyone out of the country again.

Historical reasons may play a role here, or a lack of information, empathy or "bad experiences".

Therefore, if one wants to solve the theme "alien crime", one should not go too hasty on the "external enemy", but first defeat the "inner enemy ".

This inner enemy, one can be oneself or just one's own people.

Since, as already mentioned, I had the impression or. the presumption that an intelligence service listens to this conversation, I said the following:

Imagine, we both sit here and are intercepted, while just a few kilometers away just at this time where we speak here, a foreigner commits a crime.

This would be a monstrosity and naughtiness without equal, because this would mean that Germans are monitoring Germans for no reason, but at the same time crimes committed by foreigners to Germans that do not take place although they could easily be prevented, which amounts to a treason in the double sense.

I went so far, that I said that once I get the house of my parents inherited, I will sell this to run with the sale proceeds this enlightenment.

However, this did not happen anymore, since the said "secret servicemen" now drive with me a malicious game.

As a last point, which is actually a secondary point, however, hardly two years later developed the 11th of September 2001.

6. Theme Women

I come back to the conversation with my colleague from the banking business, which of course also dealt with the topic of women. First of all, I have to say that I had not yet had a firm girlfriend, because I liked very few of the "outer" or. I had particularly high demands.

Since in every person the desire to no longer be alone, there is the desire to find the right partner, the state of non-fulfillment can be joy- and performance-inhibiting.

This is how I felt the time from the 15th to the 22nd. Year of life. However, came a compromise, which could certainly have concluded more often, namely, to take a less good-looking woman, with which I somehow understood, not in question – I wanted to have the best or nothing at all.

The secret service that has been watching me for a lifetime, knew about this "Achilles heel", moreover, I had openly declared a declaration of war on these invisible and unknown persons.

In October 2000 I started my business studies in Bayreuth with the hope of finally getting to know an attractive woman there.

First of all, I should not be disappointed, as a young student from the outside corresponded to my ideas.

However, this meeting, like the non-meeting, was controlled by this "secret organization", which I was not aware of at the time.

So, I lived at first in the hope, finally to find my love happiness and it passed the first semester and the summer semester 2001 started.

The following development is not easy to communicate, especially since as an outsider you can easily get the impression that my life was constantly about that I had the impression that I had the impression to be spied on. That is not the case.

I would therefore like to stress that since my conversation 2 years ago I have had extremely rarely such thoughts, if at all.

There was, however, an occasion for this, which I do not want to discuss here, however, because it is ultimately not relevant to the matter. Was I can say today later, is that one wanted to lay a wrong track?

Therefore, at this point I would like to omit superfluous details, and come directly to the relevant point, namely that I had at some point the suspicion that the parents of this student me monitored.

I started dealing with this situation and after a few weeks I started talking to the invisible people right in my student apartment. I did not want to make a complaint directly to the police but wait and see.

In my naivety at the time, I believed that I could get people to stop and stop monitoring.

I said, for example, "Can you please stop listening to me and listen to me..."

If I had known at the time that I would have been monitored for a lifetime, I certainly wouldn't have said some things, such as. as follows:

Why I said these things, can perhaps be explained psychologically in such a way that this "attention" that one feels, which of course is on the one hand extremely unpleasant, on the other hand a kind of Spotlight represents in which you want to make a good figure or show what you know or can do.

So, I started, for example, to develop a strategy for the DFB in order to be able to win tournaments again. Regarding details, I would like to refer again to my written estate.

Another example: The original reason for my interest in business administration resulted from the fact that I had read many company reports, e.g. from the Handelsblatt, the Manager Magazine or books, which aroused in me more and more the interest in the question, what make successful companies different than unsuccessful. What are the reasons for this? The answer to this was also becoming increasingly clear, as this had something to do with the term 'strategy'. I wanted to drive more of that.

The reality at the university was even more disappointing, as this very exciting and decisive question was almost not addressed at all. They danced around the subject, so to speak, and dealt with less important or derived questions.

So, I expressed the desire to set up a new chair. It should call itself "International Management" and address the important issue of the globalization of the economy.

I didn't really expect this to be implemented, but you can talk about it ...

Specifically, I had the wish that the professor would also bring something more than usual practical experience and come from Siemens. Also, the assistant or. Ph.D. student I ordered for "certain appearances " (short blond hair, with large bust size) ....and a few years later actually get.

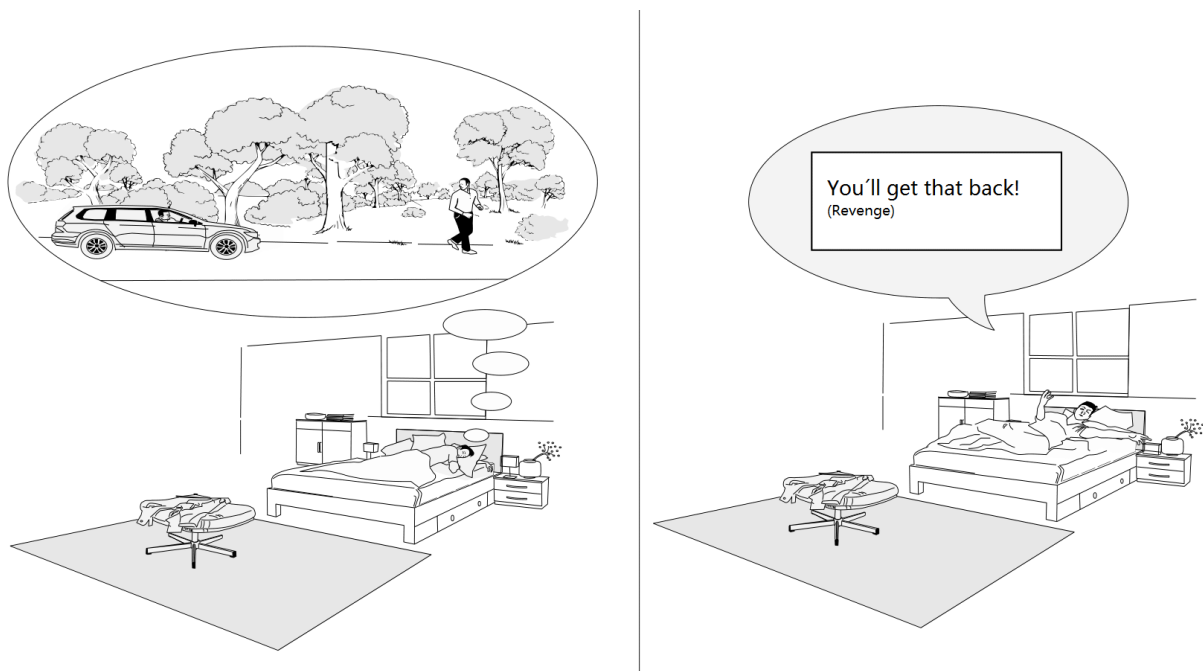

This detail is worth mentioning that such a young woman must have met several criteria, a completed business studies, the described appearance and of course intellectually able to doctoral position. There will not have been too many eligible women in Germany at the time. But we have got it, which leads me to the conclusion that the surveillance intensity in Germany must be very high and thus must be assumed from a real existing surveillance state.

Back to the summer semester 2001, which went to Ende without love happiness and with me to be monitored with the ever-stronger certainty.

The fact was also that the Secret Service had to assume that most likely for the first time in their history, someone who is being monitored by you, has come along with this and even with They spoke.

I had the idea of a school friend, whose father had a relative with the CIA, whose help to draw, but which I rejected at that time.

On the night of September 10,2001 to September 11, 2001 – there were still semester holidays, but I was now back in my apartment in Bayreuth – I got a dream, which was so unpleasant that one could Visualization of the "surveillance" can speak, and acted so strongly that I woke up at night in bed and exclaimed "you get this back", by which I meant the people who obviously monitored me at the moment.

The next day, the famous attack on the World Trade Center occurred.

Intuitively, I knew there was a connection with me, or. this attack was carried out by the United States itself.

For a few weeks I withstood the pressure, but I saw my studies in danger, moreover, I did not yet get the full intention, why someone let the 11th of September happen.

So, in January 2002 I went to the police for the first time to file a complaint for illegal surveillance.

Unfortunately, I didn't get to the finish line.

In the following weeks and months gradually opened up the whole picture to me and I had previously assumed a monitoring since the study, so I unfortunately had to realize that I already whole life in the clutches of a secret organization.

In the fall of 2004 I made another complaint, this time in another police department and was rejected wider.

In 2019 I made the third and last attempt.

I have turned to various private investigators and filed two advertisements, once at the public prosecutor's office in Hanau and once at the Attorney General in Karlsruhe, eicht.

The best possible result was that a private investigator recommended to me a "Remote Viewing" institute in Austria, to which I should turn. But also, this gentleman (Bernd Gloggnitzer) wrote to me a few weeks later, that he could not eat me.

7. Hollywood

Now I would like to come to a topic, which initially falls out of the frame, but nevertheless has a decisive relevance.

The secret organization that monitors me, influences which Hollywood movies are made by w. what content is filmed.

Another conversation with my colleague from the banking business was also about movies and I mentioned some things that I would like to see in the cinema or. what these movies should look like.

Here are four examples:

Since I felt Sharon Stone as a very attractive woman or still feel, I said that I would find it nice if I could see a second part of Basic Instinct again; this film should be set in England.

It would be interesting if Tom Cruise plays a killer once, since this would fall completely out of the frame of his previous role.

In addition, I have developed a little more detailed an idea about two contents of a series or. How this series should be structured.

I told him that as a little boy I had seen the movie "Escape of Alcatraz" with Clint Eastwood on TV, which I found very exciting. So how the story was told, how someone manages to break out of a prison, but also at the end of the movie it was a pity that the film was now over, but I like to get away with it more, so somehow it should go further. I told myself, many viewers will be similar, that they are captivated by a movie and would like to have more of it. So, I came up with the idea that such a film should be made again, but not as a feature film (i.e. over 90 or 120 minutes), but as a series and the History should be extended to 10 hours. This could create a whole new dimension of tension. In addition, the time after the outbreak could also be filmed in a new season.

With the TV series "Prison Break" this has been implemented accordingly –very good even as I find.

So, in retrospect I unknowingly delivered the basic idea at that time, but of course neither the script written, nor the actors selected, nor other things for the real realization of this season contributed.

The same, i.e. the basic scaffolding delivered; I can say of the series "Vikings".

Also here Came to me the idea, that it is after all interesting and exciting, once from today's perspective with Hollywood Power to tell the story of the Vikings. From the first sea voyages to England, the raids there, the way of life, the first

Points of contact with a new religion – Christianity, the conquest of Paris. I remember that I mentioned that in such an epic, it is important that filming is done as much as possible in real nature or in other words, preferably on studio scenes is dispensed with.

I could give more examples, but I am sure that it has become clear that this will no longer be a coincidence.

During the summer semester, when I spoke in the apartment with the presumed listeners, I said among other things that this circumstance that I am being monitored - I already indicate that I am intend to defend myself accordingly - in case of need, I would Fly plane into a building to get the appropriate attention - will go into world history and once Hollywood movies would be shot after me.

How correct I was at that time in the pronunciation of these words, only later became clear to me.

Because not only after September 11, 2001, movies were made because of my inspiration, but the Hollywood connection existed before.

In a hidden way, i.e. in feature film format, these people processed their own or., the extraordinary abilities accessible to you and unknown to the public, sometimes more or less concrete.

Examples include:

"Chuck ooly, who's talking " – In the film, the viewer can listen to the thoughts of the toddlers – in reality, these people can hear from me or. of every human being reading the thoughts.

"The Cell" with Jennifer Lopez - The film depicts a woman who has the special gift of being able to connect to a person's brain. Specifically, she intervenes in that of a murderer in order to achieve something good, namely, to save a missing woman from death - in reality this is what is being done. me or other Psonen, without concrete reason and thus steals the complete privacy.

"Starship Troopers" – This film is about a not-too-distant future in which future special forces of an army already have "telepathic abilities" – this has been the case since long time reality.

There may be many more such sequences from movies and series, but Not all of them are known to me and I can't or don't have to list here.

In summary, I would like to illustrate with these examples that exactly this ability to " read thoughts "and to be able to connect into the "brain of another person “, of the same organization is processed cinematically, which has this ability!

8. Hooking into the brain

As already mentioned, I spoke to the Secret Service during the summer of 2001 on different days in my apartment. Among other things, I asked that I be aware of the latest intelligence methods.

They have come to this wish not by having the possibility of "pluginating into the brain of another " illustrated by dream.

In this "dream" I saw my father come down the stairs in our house with a phone on his ear while I was standing downstairs.

In a moment afterwards I saw a "woman" who also held a phone to your ear and spoke to me, "that goes much crasser"...

She thus made it clear to me that she could thus influence that my father started to talk to me and could also influence the content or. The mood of my father.

Note: To avoid misunderstandings, to my current knowledge, the manipulation goes even without a physical phone – so the phone is to be understood as a metaphor.

Normally I would have to describe this point much more intensively, as it

On the one hand, surveillance intensity is extremely driven, since even one's own thoughts are no longer intimate, i.e. the stealing of privacy is carried out to almost 100%, on the other hand, the transition from passive monitoring in active intervention in life describes and especially with regard to my efforts to make this monitoring public difficult in that the people I help h were subjected to this manipulation.

However, it remained with this one note, on the other hand it was as short as I have described to you.

9. Summary

If I forget for a moment that to this day, I have never had a private or intimate sphere, there are several events that have written world history that are due to my will and I could therefore feel good. Two criminals regime, the US adjusts its grand strategy not my ideas and Hollywood movies were filmed after my inspiration. Briefly, I would like to mention at this point that this is far from everything. I could give many more examples of the same dimension. And... now the whole thing still puts on the crown, I am apparently a very ordinary young man from Germany. At least I was young when I thought and said things, now I'm 42 years old. Right, because of many things I could feel good and have done so.

However, in sum for me there are many negative side effects, which I would like to clarify here once again.

A main consequence is, for example, that I have not had a wife/girlfriend for a lifetime, the last 18 years solely because I do not take a wife, if I know, that I am being monitored.

Since I, as already mentioned, told my college that I will eventually go so far that I will sell my father's house, only to find out if someone is monitoring me, let the Answer not long in coming, because a few months later my father lost his job as a niederlassungsleiter, remained unemployed for several years and then never really find anything equivalent again could, thus, the house financing, which was still running or running, more or less endangered.

This was a harsh psychological burden for my family.

Since the pension is not enough, my father is currently forced to work full-time as an over 70.

This dismissal, by the way, did not take place because two secret service agents personally made representations to my father's former employer and led him to pronounce the dismissal, but invisible one has hooked into the brain and generated by means of remote control the desired result.

To round off the picture, I would like to say that I suffered some physical injuries, which I also ascribe to this "organization" and have satanic traits or in the legal language can be described as "dangerous to the general danger" .

I would like to refrain from a specific designation at this point, because the future will bring the truth to light.

10. Assessment

For the origin of my monitoring, two variants seem possible to me at the moment.

Due to the verberent Second World War and the subsequent Cold War, I can imagine a U.S. background, in which Germany and its people were targeted on a blanket basis. which was justified by the National Socialist past or Soviet espionage.

Another possibility is that the authors are "Germans", which must however have a strong connection to the USA.

Which variant is actually correct, the fact is following:

These people are (to put it bluntly) something different from ordinary people who meet you.

This results from the described, because on the one hand you were my constant companion in life and according to your logic sometimes positive, sometimes negatively intervened in my life.

I would like to stress that I write these lines mainly because I am certainly not an isolated case, and also many other people in Germany or the rest of the world such in one similar fishing net and had to experience similar things, the true cause of which they could not even imagine.

These people stand above the American President, who, according to general usage, is considered to be the most powerful man on the planet.

When I started to communicate openly with these people in the summer of 2001, this probably triggered something, which I explain to myself as follows:

That I have noticed that I will be overwhelmed is a performance, maybe even an outstanding one and some will call me a "genius" because I was mentally able to have an invisible process and introduce myself to me. And... this must be emphasized again here, so that it was right!

Since it must not only be a very powerful, but also a larger organization with at least several hundred people, I had an attention either inside or outside this organization is so concerned that a new group has "joined in", because I associate this with 9/11.

Simply put, it has pleased someone who I am, what I said, how I think and how I see things.

Their core performance to this day is that they hold together for a very long time. No one has come to a point of them themselves to put an end to the methods and thus the organization.

The source of funding is unclear. Where do the funds come from to carry out such monitoring?

In their ranks there are people who have special gifts, namely, to be able to read the thoughts of another person and to be able to engage in them manipulatively. The question is whether this is an innate ability or one that can be "learned"? What conditions must be met for it to succeed? How intensively this "remote control" can be driven, is also unclear to me. No one will voluntarily run against the wall, so can be driven to nonsensical actions, but within the framework of daily life encounters, conversations and turns can be directed in a specific direction.

Can you manipulate someone in such a way that that person hangs himself? With that they could carry out the perfect crime, since they would never have to be there in person at the time of the crime. no normal person would insinuate that the cause of death was caused in this way.

Since I was most likely the only one among the population who knew what they were doing, I became an ambivalent case for them.

On the one hand she has certainly impressed this, especially since I have already at very young years correctly assessed the situation, vielleicht I have even set the ultimate world record, since in retrospect, after only a few seconds in my life the situation correctly indicated. On the other hand, this was again not a desirable condition for them, because in the long term they could imagine that I would become a problem for them if I did not let loose to operate the enlightenment to the end.

When implementing the DFB strategy, the question arises for me, did they get this only through the so-called "remote control" or has any DFB manager ever gotten my face seen or a spoken word heard by me?

The personalities Oliver Bierhoff and Jürgen Klinsmann, as well as the American fitness trainers are for me the visible part of the implementation of my strategy recommendation.

Whether the DFB team at the European Championship 2004 has left voluntarily, I cannot answer, likewise I do not know, to what extent my other recommendations were implemented.

That Donald Trump knowingly implements my recommendations, I also doubt, because I am sure here that this works via the so-called remote control.

So, there is indeed a so-called "shadow government"!

How intensive the surveillance in Germany is, I can of course only suspect. But the picture that emerges for me is that it must be an unimaginable order of magnitude and intensity.

A main concern of mine is therefore that a future central surveillance of the population will never be implemented or. The already existing will be exposed and eliminated.

11. Conclusion

None of this can be a coincidence:

- The Iraq and Afghanistan war (especially in the way they were conducted)
- The personalities at the DFB, the coaching posts of Jürgen Klopp
- The Chair of International Management at the University of Bayreuth
- The listed Hollywood movies
- Now that a billionaire in the USA implements my policy recommendation (even some slogans I had developed, like "America First, Buy American and Hire American")

As already mentioned, I could give several other examples that fall into the same category.

So, I've had the privilege of thinking about these milestones over the last 18 years and training my brain capacity based on these strategic signals.

For me personally, it has long been in no doubt that I am right when I say I am being monitored by a secret organization.

At that time, I had unknowingly dialed the American police emergency call "911" or better formulated, they chose me lassen.

However, this emergency call did not provide its assistance.

Of course, the contents and examples presented are only a small part of what I have experienced or said in my life.

It is not possible to reproduce on a few pages in whole life, especially the subjective impressions, the seen and experienced, as well as every thought process.

The main purpose of my remarks is to identify the essentials, which I would like to summarize:

The mankind on this planet is sold by a very small so-called "elite" for stupid, which has a secret knowledge that it deliberately withholds from the broad masses.

With this I would also like to point to further secrets, which can be found as links on my homepage.

If an ordinary thief breaks into a car or enters a house, you may not have seen anyone, but you know that you have been the victim of a crime because you have either missing objects or detecting traces of break-up.

When a secret organization starts a surveillance, one has also become a victim of a crime. However, it was generally not at all possible that the offence was committed.

That is the serious and all-important difference.

How can and can the population defend themselves against a crime of which they do not know that it is taking place?

The second peculiarity is that those who carry out the "crime" were informed of all the steps I took to bring the crime to the public. Even the writing of these lines they took note in real time.

Furthermore, I assume that the appropriate persons are in the police or. Authorities that I consulted were tampered with, with the result that they could prevent their own prosecution.

When I was only a few years old, I swore to myself that if I was right to be monitored, then there is war!

For all these reasons, therefore, I had no choice but to act as I did in order to gain the necessary attention.

This rank is to be understood as a double blow, against the secret organization and against the degeneration of our people!

People come and go. What remains is the people!

Look closely at who the people are in the future.
